BUDY BLIC SPECIAL.

New York, July 30.-A naval officer, who declines to permit the use of his name, calls At attention to the following official correspondence which is referred to in one of the paragraphs in the precept to the Court of Inquiry:

"I. The condition of the c al supply of the filey squadron on and about May 21, 108; its realing facilities; the necessity, if any, for, or sustability of, the return of the squadron to have West to coal, and the accuracy and projectly or the official regions made by Commodore Schley with respect to this matter." From Schley's Official Report.

From Schley's Official Report.

The accuracy and propriety" is a phrase which at once sent this officer to the record, to see what Schley had reported and how his reports compared with those of the other officers coherned. Here is what he found from Schley:

May 2—Expect difficulty here will be to coal from colliers to the constant heavy swell. Other problems easy as compared with this so far from base. with this so far from base.

May 24-On account of want of coal, I can-

May 24—On account of want of coal, I cannot blockade.

May 27—Have been unable absolutely to coal the Texas, Marblehead, Vixer, Brooklyn from collier, all owing to very rough sea. * * The Brooklyn alone has more than sufficient coal to preceed to Key West, Cannot remain off Santiage; present state coal account. Impossible to coal leeward of Cape Cruz in the summer, all owing to coaltwesterly whats. * * Much to be regretted, cannot obey orders of separtment. Have striven earnestly; forced to proceed for coal to Key West by way of Yucatan Passage. Cannot ascertain anything enemy positive.

Refuted by Records.

On the other hand, these statements and facts stared at him out of the same document, every one a definite official record:

From Sampson, May 28.—He (Schley) has sufficient coal aboard undoubtedly to keep the sea for some time, as all except lowaleft here full.

Schley's own report—The lowa, Castine and Dupont took coal from the collier that day (May 22, when it was so great a problem so far from base).

Again from the report of May 24—Massachusetts coaled from Merrimac, (This was the day when he could not blockade because of want of coal.)

On May 21 the lowa reported 755 tons of coal, used 40. On the 24th, having meanwhile coaled from the Merrimac, she reported 255 tons, used 32. On May 24 the Marbiehead reported coal for steaming seven days, equivalent to enough for about a month's blocknding duty; and on the 27th she coaled from the Merrimac from 9 p. m. till 10 a. m.

Had Coal to Burn.

In brief, when Schley insisted on going back to Key West to coal, the records show that his own ship had coal for ten or twelve days' full steaming, or farty to forty-eight of blockade work; the Iowa and Massachusetts a trifle less; the Texas haif as much as the Brocklyn; the Marblehead one-third as much before she coaled from the Merrimac, the amounts afterwards in definite, but, of course, much larger; and definite, but, of course, much larger; and there were still more than 4,000 tons left on the Merrimac.

HURRY UP!

Everywhere one hears that expression erry up!" It is a genuine Americanism expressive of the "rush" in which we live. Nothing is swift enough for us. We enough for us. as she lay in the mouth of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, then Rear Admiral Remains as likewise guilty of the game Sampson was likewise guilty of the same charge."

This will be one of the strongest points which will be submitted to the Court of Inquiry in behalf of Rear Admiral Schley. The seventh specification of the precept directs the court to ascertain whether or not every effort incumbent upon the commanding officer of a fleet under such circumstanees was made to capture or destroy the Spanish crulser Colon as she lay at anchor in the entrance to Santiago harbor and the Spanish vessels at anchor within the entrance to said harbor, at the ranges used, and the propriety of Commodore Schley's conduct in the premises.

In his report of the operations under his command Rear Admiral Sampson states that immediately on arrival at Santiago "I steamed down past the entrance to Santiago steamed down past the entrance to Santiago "I steamed down past the entrance to Santiago "I steamed down past the entrance to Santiago".

command Rear Admiral Sampson states that immediately on arrival at Santlago "I steamed down past the entrance to Santiago Harbor and saw, lying close within, the Cristchal Colon and one of the Vizcaya class. Both of these got up steam and moved up into the harbor out of sight."

It is contended by the friends of Rear Admiral Schley that this statement indicates that the Spanish ships immediately hauled up and steamed back into the harbor. As a matter of fact they did not leave their anchorage for four hours and thirty-five minutes.

bor. As a matter of fact they did not leave their anchorage for four hours and thirty-five minutes.

"Four to 8 a. m., June 1," the log of the Colon states, "the enemy's squadron in sletht, passing the moeth of the harbor from east to west, afterwards from west to east, at a great distance and beyond range of our guns; they appear to have been re-enforced by several vessels.

"At 9 a. m., sent men to coal the Furor. At twenty minutes past 10 a. m., by order of the commandant general of the squadron, cast off the springs. At twenty-five minutes to 11 a. m., got under way and, under direction of the commanding officer, cast to starboard and under slow speed, passed between Punta Gorda and the bow of the Oquendo. Directed our course into the linear harbor until ten minutes to 12 n. m., at which time we came to anchor."

Thus, it will be shown to the court, Rear Admiral Sampson, who arrived at Santiago about 6 o'clock on the morning of June 1, had four hours and twenty minutes in which to attack the Colon and Vizcaya, He failed, however, to fire a single shot at the

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, July 20.—Cotton brokers are confident that the Government's August report on cotton crop conditions, which, by the way, is the most important one of the year, will not be published on Saturday next. The local exchange petitioned the Department of Agriculture at Washington to withhold the report over Sunday on account of the short business session on Saturday at the different cotton markets of the country. Superintendent King received word to-day from the statistician at Washington that the matter would be decided to-mcrrow. The cotton report compiled by the department is regularly issued on the third day of each month. On this occasion the date falls on a Saturday, and, as the report might occasion an important change in prices, dealers and brokers deemed it advisable to ark that the publication be deferred until the Monday following.

Conflagration, on Same Day, Twenty-Eight Years Ago, Caused a Loss of One Million Dollars.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Baltimore, Md., July 30 .- On the twentyeighth anniversary of the greatest fire that ever visited Baltimore, the city was struck by a rain, wind and lightning storm that did $100,000 damage.

Much of the damnge was caused by the flooding of cellars. In the center of the city the inflow of water resulted in the destruction in whole or part of goods stored in cellars, and in some cases on the first floors of business houses. The resultdestruction in whole or part of goods stored in cellars, and in some cases on the first floors of business houses. The resulting dampness, too, had its bad effect on goods of a fragile nature. Flooded cellars in residence districts were followed by the weakening of walls, making necessary some repairs to the houses.

Following a rainfail of nearly two inches in one hour, the sewers, which were not planned to meet such an emergency became choked up, and in the lower pections of the city overflowed, causing the streets to run like rivers. Cars were stalled in the current, and passengers had to stand on the seats to avoid a wetting. No one disred to walk along the streets, and employee of business houses in the flooded sections were forced to the second floors, there to await the subsiding of the waters.

The fire which occurred in 1873 entailed a loss of more than $1,300,600. The burned district covered an area of four squares. A hundred houseless and two churches were laid in ashes and 1,000 people were rendered homeless.

This fire started in a large planing mill fronting Clay and Park streets, between Lexington and Saratoga streets. A large pile of shavings and rubbish in the enginerom was ignited by cinders. The engineer immediately went to work on the fire with a hose, but the flames spread so rapidly that he was compelled to leave the building. The men working upstairs knew nothing of the fire until their escape by the stairway was cut off and they had to jump from second and third story windows to save themselves.

Flames swept over the surrounding buildings and soon the heat became so intense that the firemen could not work in Park street.

The Cardinals yesterday regained second place in the race for the pennant-not by their own exertions, but because the Brooktheir own exertions, but because the Brook-lynites took a same from Philadelphia. The margin by which the St. Louis team leads, however, is very narrow, barely two points separating the locals and the Quakera. Philadelphia may jump back and dis-place St. Louis to-day, as they open a se-ries at New York, and on form it would seem that they are easy winners. In such a case, the Cardinals would have to take third place meekly, as the locals have no game scheduled for to-day.

Until September the Cardinals will play with none but the Western teams of the League, and on the outcome of these games depends a great deal as regards rennant possibilities. It is nip and tuck between St. Louis and Philadelphia for second place onors, but with Padden back in the game the locals should cinch the position by taking the series from Chicago. The Remnants, although occupying last position, are no easy proposition, and never were for St. Louis. Pete Childs is putting up a great game at second, and Hartsel is still running bases like a fox. Pittsburg, how-ever, will have a comparatively easy time of it with Cincinnati. The Pirates rest until Saturday and then take on the Reds for two games, one at Pittsburg and one at Cincinnati.

take the majority of games with Chicago and Cincinnati

After the four battles with the Pirates the Cardinals again touch at Chicago for three more arguments with the Dexterites. Following this they jump over to Pittsburg for three more trys at the Smoky Cityites and then returning home will take or the Reds for two more games. The Western teams will thus fight it out among themselves for the next month, and the standling of the several clubs at the end of that time will be a fair indication of their standing at the end of the season, unless Philadelphia and Brocklyn pick up amazingly and finish strong.

The Cardinals go to Chicago to-night to open up a series with the Remnants to-morrow, and they go in fair shape. Manager Donovan announces that Dick Padden will be in the game again, and that means that Jack Ryan will again don the mask. Eddle Murphy will likely twirl the first game and either Harper or Powell the second. Heidrick is expected to rejoin the club at Pittsburg. Wicker will accompany the Cardinals on the trip and also Heydon, but it is doubtful if the former will be able to get in any of the games. Wicker was worked to death at Dayton and in the last game gave his arm a severe wrench. His recovery has been slow, but he may be able to take a hand in the near future. Manager Donovan looks to Wicker as a comer.

have been given by diamond stars, but Dck Harley of the Reds has come forward with one of the most novel. He says that the background of many colored shirts on a hot day makes it impossible to correctly judge a bail.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

judge a bail.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Spectacular ball playing is what the fans are looking for these days and the man, however steady he might be, who fields a bail or makes a put-out in methodical style does not stand the chance for popularity that the fielder does who is able to make a star play out of one which could be pullea off in common, everyday style.

The fielder fans will cheer such a play to the echo, where perhaps a good stop or throw made unostentatiously would elleit but little applause. Take, for instance, the case of Otto Kruger, the little third buseman of the Cardinals, Kruger has participated in every game since he became a Cardinal. He has off days like any other mortal, and at times has gone into the game when he should have been on the same when he should have been on the bench. Kruger has perhaps been criticised more than any other man on the team, but the fact remains that he has been doing excellent work.

He feels adverse criticism, which is almost enough to discourage him at times. But it does not affect his work. During the extremely hot spell of a week ago Kruger was a sick man, but he displayed that silent gameness which Manager Donovan knows how to appreciate.

Those who follow the game closely are apt to pick flaws in the work of a home team much quicker than they discover faults in a visiting team. The reason for this is simple. In St. Louis, for instance, the fans see the Cardinals as they work day in and day out. A visiting team comes here. A player, who has fendered, perhaps, poor service in his own town, will pick up and play a star game when away from home. His work is judged by the local rooters solely on the strength of his showing here. The thing works both ways. A player who cannot strike a fast gait at home will often improve to a surprising extent when playing in other cities. Pete Childs, now with Chicago, is an example of this sort of luck, When in St. Louis Childs showed up poorly, and finally was released. He is now rated as one of the bright particular stars of the Remnants, and Jim Hart thinks there is no one like him.

McPherson, the pitcher who was recently signed by New York, is the same twirler that Connie Mack tried, but let go. It is said that Bumpus Jones, who pitched great ball nine years ago for Cincinnata, is going blind.

members of Fred Clarke's band of Pirates are evidently not popular in Cincinnati. The Cincinnati Times-Star, soillo-quizing over pennant possibilities, says:

"So far as the members of the Cincinnati and other teams are concerned, they would rather see the pennant float in St. Louis than in Pittsburg. Several members of the Pittsburg team have taken occasion at various times to conduct themselves toward other players in a superior manner. Now every ball player thinks he is as good as any other, and when one man tries to lord it over him, he immediately considers that man his enemy. Hence, because of the chestiness of one or two of the Pirates, the entire crew has the ill-will of a majority of the other players in the National League. And this antipathy does the Pirates no good."

"Noodles" Hahn, who has been appear-ing with the Reds ever since his debut in the National League, deserves better asso-clates than are furnished him by "Bid" Mc-Phee. Thus far Hahn's record includes an average of a fraction over seven strike-outs to each game.

Dan McGann has lost none of his popularity in Baltimore. Says the Baltimore arity in Batumore. Says the Batumore American:
"Dan McGann is beginning to kill the ball. McGann always traits along the first part of the season with a poor average, and then comes strong toward the close and finishes up in the .300 class."

"Whitey" Guese, the recent acquisition to the pitching staff of the Redg, got his early training with the amateur teams in Ohio. Finally he became strong enough to get into fast company, and in 1895 and 1897 joined the famous Wapak Indians. The other twirler of the "Indians" at that time was Bob Ewing, now with Kansas City in the Western League. From there Guese went to Newcastle, was farmed out in succession to Detroit and Fort Wayne, and finally landed with Indianapolis, for which team he did excellent work last year.

Detroit, Mich., July 20.—Speaking with reference to Ban Johnson's threat that Baltimore would be dropped from the League next year, Manager McGraw said last night:

"If Ban Johnson keeps on talking, the dullest intellect in the country will soon understand what the trouble is in the American League. The League hired Mr. Johnson at an annual salary of $5,000 to conduct its business. Now, the manager of the business assumes that he is the owner and threatens to discharge one of the partners who hired him. I am very much of the opinion that we need a new president."

TALK OF COMING TO ST. LOUIS. St. Louisans Said to Be Dickering for Milwaukee Club.

Chicago, July 30.—President Johnson's reply to the reports from New York to the ply to the reports from New York to the effect that the American League was "ready to give up the ghost" was the unqualified announcement that the American League purposes to invade St. Louis not later than next spring.

It is known that an offer of $30,000 has been made the owners of the Milwaukee Club for their team and tranchise by st. Louis capitalists, but this offer has been refused.

President Johnson made the announcemer at the conclusion of a conference with Henry Killilea of Milwaukee, C. W. Somers of Cleveland, vice president of the Amer-ican League and owner of the Boston clut, and President Comiskey of the Chicago club.

Mr. Killiliea confirmed the story of the St. Louis offer, and said it was a bonafide bld on a cash basis, but that it had been declined.

When asked if it would not be a doubtful proposition to locate a rival club in the Mound City at a time when there is so much enthusiasm over the National League club there, President Johnson made the remark: "There will be no other club in St. Louis when we go there."

PIRATES STILL SORE.

They Misrepresent to the Pittsburg Fans Their Treatment Here.

Fans Their Treatment Here.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—Fred Clarke, the manager, and most of the members of the Pittsburg ball team, arrived in Pittsburg to-day full of resentment over the treatment they say they received at St. Louis. When the Cardinais play the next series bere they had better come prepared for lively work, and work not of a strict base-ball character. The Pittsburg players say they are going to get even by giving the St. Louis men more than the Pirates got.

To get even, Fred Clarke and his men will have to spike opposing players and intimidate the umpire, for, according to Fred Clarke's story, Burkett spiked Zimmer willfully and assaulted Bransfield with both fists, and the club intimidated Umpire Tom Brown.

Such stories from Pitsburg would indicate that Clarke and his men to excuse their failure to annex more than two games from the Cardinals have taken to misrepresenting their treatment here.

The alleged spiking alluded to occurred in the Sunday game. Zimmer threw to second to catch McGann, who made a bluff to steal and Burkett made a try for the plate. Ritchie sailed the ball back to Zimmer, who was standing right on the plate. If Burkett had slid head foremost he would have come in contact with Zimmer's spiked shoes. He came in feet first, and his shoes struck Zimmer, who was standing within an inch er two of the plate. Bransfield was not assaulted by any one. In Saturday's game Burkett scratched in front of the plate.

Bransfield stood directly on the first bag to receive Zimmer's throw, which was a little high. As he immed for the plate little high.

Bransfield stood directly on the first bag to receive Zimmer's throw, which was a little high. As he jumped for the ball, Burkett reached first, and Bransfield being directly in the path turned a somersault. No attempts were made to intimidate Tom Brown by the home team. In fact, it was Brown who gave the decision calling Kruger out at third on a throw by Zimmer, who was not in the game. This decision was given during the argument in Friday's game, when Jack O'Connor and Murphy mixed. The Pittsburg team will gain no respect from the followers of the game for making covert threats such as Clarke and his men are alleged to have made. The Cardinals expect a hard fight at Pittsburg, but not of the kind that is not provided for in the rules.

TROUBLE OF SERIOUS NATURE.

Many Yachtsmen Belleve Constitution

Many Yachtsmen Belleve Constitution
Will Prove a Disappointment.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Newport, R. L., July 30.—The fearful drubbling the Columbia gave the Constitution yesterday is still the subject of comment by leading yachtsmen. It is held by many that the new boat is simply under a cloud and will in good time redeem herself, while others maintain that the latest Herreshoff production will always play second fiddle to the old champlor. Among the latter are several whose opinions cannot be rudely thrust aside.

While admitting that the Constitution may not be properly balanced and that her sall plan may be incorrect, yet it is said there is plenty of evidence that her trouble is of a more serious nature.

Mr. Duncan, in speaking of the defects of his charge and the changes that will be made to remedy them, says:

"It would be simply a waste of time to race Constitution in her present shape. I think the gaff swings too wide and stors her going to windward. The yacht's sail plan will not be altered by the new rig. A lower mast five feet longer than the present one will be stepped, and this will change the head of the peak halyards. I think that when the sheets are trimmed flat with the new rig we will be able to get the gaff in. The new topmast will be shorter than the present one. The main sail will have more hoist, but there will not be an inch greater spread of sail."
